HISTORICAL NOTE:

The University of Texas at Austin President’s Office manages the activities of the University President as well as the complex business of a large research university presidency. The Office handles scheduling, organizing, and managing events the President attends or leads; along with managing correspondence and requests of the President and of the Office; and preparation, storage, and record keeping of the President’s activities and presentations and a multitude of University records.

The chief executive officer of the UT Austin campus is the President. UT did not have a President from its beginning in 1883 until 1895. Since 1895 there have been 28 Presidents:

1895-1896 Leslie Waggener, M.A., LL.D., ad interim
1896-1899 George Taylor Winston, M.A., LL.D.

“A to Z: A comprehensive look at UT History.” UT History Central. University

SCOPE AND CONTENTS:
Records of the University President’s Office at the University of Texas at Austin document institutional procedures and policies, daily workings, special programs, college and departmental records, and general files of the President’s Office and of the University. Earlier records contain portions of War Program files and records from the 1960s and 1970s consist partially of Civil Rights, segregation, and desegregation-themed records.
The majority of the files can be designated as “UT Files”, separated by College, School, or Department; and as “General Files”, usually organized alphabetically by theme. Additionally, the greatest extent of the materials have been kept in original order as to the President’s Office organizational structure, and checklists have been made available on this inventory.
